

Accessibility of Mybenefit

This website, which is run by Be My Compensation Management AB (organisation number 556963-9262). The Mybenefits web application helps companies, organizations and their employees make wise choices about employee benefits. Mybenefit helps employers make the entire benefit package visible to employees, build employee knowledge and guide them in the selection of benefits. In addition, we digitize administrative processes.

We want as many people as possible to be able to use Mybenefit. This document describes how Mybenefit complies with the Digital Public Service Accessibility Act, any known accessibility issues and how you can report deficiencies to us so we can fix them.

The accessibility work includes the interface for end users (our customers' employees). The interface for administrators is not missing from the accessibility work.

How accessible is the website?

There are no known deficiencies in the accessibility of this website or its associated apps available for both Android and Apple's IOS. This means that Mybenefit, as a technical web application, meets the requirements for accessibility by having functionality to ensure that content in the portal can be made accessible.

For all content such as texts, images, videos, etc., to also meet the accessibility requirements, the available functionality must be used correctly. It is therefore important that all parties who can add content ensure that the content is posted correctly. Parties that can add content are the customer (employer), suppliers (3rd party) or Mybenefit. This also applies to documents sent from 3rd parties.

What to do if you can't access parts of this website?

If you need content from <https://cloud.mybenefit.se/> that is not available to you but is exempt from the scope of the law as described below, you can let us know. The response time is normally one day.

Reporting accessibility problems with this website

We are always looking to improve the accessibility of this website. If you finde any problems that are not described on this page, or if you believe that we do not meet the requirements of the accessibility regulations, contact support@mybenefit.se and let us know about the problem.

Enforcement procedure

The Agency for Digital Government, Digg, is responsible for enforcing the web accessibility regulations. If you experience accessibility issues on our website, you can submit a complaint to Digg (<https://www.digg.se/tdosanmalan>).

You can also submit a complaint to Digg (<https://www.digg.se/tdosanmalan>) if you think that our assessment of what constitutes a disproportionate burden should be reviewed, if you think that our accessibility statement is inadequate, or if you think that your request for excluded content in an accessible format has not been handled correctly.

How we tested this website

Funka, an external actor, conducted an independent review of <https://cloud.mybenefit.se/> on 2020-12-11. Funka's methodology is developed in close collaboration with the disability movement and everything Funka recommends is tested. Funka's operations are based on the international guidelines for accessibility, Web Content Accessibility Guidelines, WCAG. WCAG 2.1 AA is the level that currently applies to the Swedish and European regulations.

In addition to the external review, we carry out self-assessment (internal testing) of Mybenefit in connection with the development of our service.

The latest assessment was made on 2023-10-01.
